Anne Andronikof is professor emeritus in psychology at Université Paris Ouest, Nanterre la Defence, France. She had been working with the Rorschach in her whole career and had worked together with John Exner for many years. She is the former president, at present vice-president of the International Society of the Rorschach, and one of the founders of, and president for the Comprehensive System International Rorschach Association (CSIRA).

Anne Andronikof has described the content of the workshop in the following way:

Rorschach: The psychodynamic Comprehensive System used in psychotherapy treatment planning.

Treatment planning is an essential aspect of the tasks performed by clinical psychologists. The traditional medical model consisting in associating specific treatments to specific diagnoses is nowadays obsolete as numerous researches have shown that the efficacy of a treatment depends on individual characteristics of a patient. In 1996, Anthony Roth & Peter Fonagy published the first edition (2nd 2005) of their blockbuster book "What works for whom? A critical review of psychotherapy research". The individual characteristics taken into account were to be found in the clinical history of the disturbance and the environmental context. Psychologists can greatly refine this approach through their deep understanding of personality functioning. Among the existing assessment tools, the Rorschach test, when the Comprehensive System is used in combination with a psychodynamic approach, offers a powerful model for finding out which type(s) of intervention to recommend.

The workshop will introduce the theoretical basis of the psychodynamic approach combined with the Comprehensive System and work with the participants on three clinical cases (child, adolescent, adult).

Language: easily understandable English.

The workshop will take place at Hotel Marriott, Kalvebod Brygge 5, 1560 Kbh. V, Denmark, the first day from 10-17, second day from 9-16.
