

PROJECTIVE ASSESSMENT IN EP WORK

Projective techniques are powerful tools to gain the voice of the child and explore aspects of their experience that may not be well understood.

When carefully analysed and triangulated with other sources of information, projective material can open up conversations with children, families and staff that can facilitate deep understanding of difficulties, and help to create change.

This course will provide an introduction to techniques and resources that can be easily incorporated into EP work, illustrated with case studies.

Attendees will have opportunities for reflective peer supervision and develop their skills in analysing, feeding back and reporting on projective material.

Attendees will leave this CPD with practical tools that they can share with their services.
